ORDER RE: PERPLEXITY AI, INC.’S
MOTIONS TO STRIKE ANSWER AND MOTION TO DISMISS

Re: Dkt. Nos. 60, 61

PERPLEXITY AI, INC.,
Counterclaimant-Plaintiff,

v.

PERPLEXITY SOLVED SOLUTIONS,
INC.,
Counterclaim-Defendant.

Perplexity Solved Solutions, Inc. (“Plaintiff”) sues Perplexity AI, Inc. (“Defendant”) for trademark infringement, and Defendant counterclaims for cancellation of Plaintiff’s trademark registration. (Dkt. Nos. 1, 23.)¹ Now pending before the Court are Defendant’s motions to strike Plaintiff’s answer to its counterclaims and enter default, (Dkt. No. 60), and to dismiss Plaintiff’s claims with prejudice, (Dkt. No. 61). After carefully considering the party’s submissions, the Court concludes oral argument is not required, see N.D. Cal. Civ. L.R. 7-1(b), and GRANTS Defendant’s motions. Because a corporation cannot proceed in federal court without licensed counsel, the Court on August 5, 2025 ordered Plaintiff, a corporation, to obtain counsel by September 5, 2025. The Court warned Plaintiff its failure to retain counsel may result in default on Defendant's counterclaims and dismissal of its claims against Defendant. Because in the nearly three months since the Court's order, Plaintiff has not obtained counsel and has instead sought to continue case management conferences and motions deadlines, default and dismissal are warranted.

BACKGROUND

Plaintiff sued Defendant for (1) trademark infringement under Lanham Act § 32(1); (2) unfair competition and false design of origin under Lanham Act § 43(a); (3) cybersquatting under Lanham Act § 43(d); (4) unfair business practices under the California Unfair Competition Law, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200; (5) common law trademark infringement and unfair competition; and (6) declaratory judgment based on Lanham Act § 2(d). (Dkt. No. 1.) The Court granted Defendant's motion to dismiss the cybersquatting claim. (Dkt. Nos. 18, 42.) Defendant also answered Plaintiff's complaint and asserted counterclaims for cancellation of Plaintiff's trademark registration (1) for fraud under 15 U.S.C. §§ 1115(b)(1) and 1119, or (2) for non-use or abandonment under 15 U.S.C. §§ 1064(3) and 1119. (Dkt. No. 23.) Plaintiff answered Defendant's countercomplaint. (Dkt. No. 40.)

On July 18, 2025, Mitchell Silberberg & Knupp LLP and its individual attorneys Eleanor M. Lackman and Marissa B. Lewis moved to withdraw as Plaintiff's counsel. (Dkt. No. 50.) Ms. Lewis attested because "there ha[d] been an irreparable breakdown in the attorney-client relationship and that [her] firm [could not] continue to effectively represent [Plaintiff]," "professional considerations require[d] termination of the representation and the situation [wa]s one in which withdrawal is appropriate." (Dkt. No. 50-1 ¶ 5.) She also attested that on June 20, 2025, she advised Plaintiff it would have to obtain substitute counsel because a corporation cannot be represent itself in federal court. (Id. ¶ 3.) On August 5, 2025, the Court granted the motion to withdraw "'subject to the condition that papers may continue to be served on counsel for forwarding purposes' until Plaintiff retain[ed] new counsel." (Dkt. No. 53 at 2 (quoting N.D. Cal. L.R. 11-5(b)).) The Court warned Plaintiff because it is a corporation, which "'may appear in the

1 federal courts only through licensed counsel,” “failure to retain substitute counsel may result in
2 the entry of default judgment on counterclaims against it . . . and dismissal of its action against
3 Defendant.” (Id. at 2-3 (quoting Rowland v. California Men’s Colony, Unit II Men’s Advisory
4 Council, 506 U.S. 194, 202 (1993)).) So, the Court granted Plaintiff “an additional 30 days to
5 acquire new counsel” and ordered Plaintiff’s new counsel to “make an appearance by September
6 5, 2025.” (Id. at 3.)

7 Because no attorney had made an appearance for Plaintiff by September 11, 2025, the 8 Court continued its September 17, 2025 case management conference. (Dkt. No. 57.) In its
9 continuance order, the Court again explained “Plaintiff is a corporation” and cannot appear
10 without licensed counsel and noted “Defendant and Counterclaimant-Plaintiff may take whatever
11 steps it deems appropriate.” (Id. at 1-2.) In addition, on October 9, 2025, the Court denied Dawn
12 Gallman Mobley’s request for a continuance of court proceedings because she had not yet
13 obtained counsel for Plaintiff. (Dkt. No. 66.) The Court reiterated “if no new counsel appeared in 14 this action, Plaintiff’s claims would have to be dismissed, and Plaintiff’s default could be entered
15 on [Defendant’s] counterclaims.” (Id. at 1.)

16 Defendant now moves to (1) strike Plaintiff’s answer to its counterclaims and direct entry
17 of default, and (2) dismiss Plaintiff’s claims with prejudice. (Dkt. Nos. 60, 61).

18 DISCUSSION

19 Defendant first moves to strike Plaintiff’s answer to and enter default on Defendant’s
20 counterclaims. “[D]efault [i]s a permissible sanction for failure to comply with local rules
21 requiring representation by counsel.” Emp. Painters’ Tr. v. Ethan Enters., Inc., 480 F.3d 993, 998
22 (9th Cir. 2007) (citation omitted); see also Screen Actors Guild-Am. Fed’n of Television & Radio
23 Artists v. LABC Prods., LLC, No. 2:21-CV-09879-HDV-MAA, 2024 WL 5472602, at *1 (C.D.
24 Cal. Aug. 16, 2024) (“If a defendant fails to comply with local rules, a federal court can exercise
25 its inherent equitable powers to strike an answer and enter default pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P.
26 55(a).”). This District’s local rules prohibit a corporation from appearing without counsel. See 27 N.D. Cal. Civ. L.R. 3-9(b) (“A corporation, unincorporated association, partnership or other such 28 entity may appear only through a member of the bar of this Court.”). So, default is a permissible

1 sanction here, when Plaintiff, a corporation, has failed to retain counsel.

2 Defendant also moves to dismiss Plaintiff's claims with prejudice. Federal Rule of Civil
3 Procedure 41(b) allows involuntary dismissal on the merits "[i]f the plaintiff fails to prosecute or 4 to comply with the[] [Federal Rules] or a court order." Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(b). Pursuant to Rule
5 41(b), courts have dismissed claims with prejudice for plaintiff's violation of court orders to retain
6 counsel. See, e.g., Mavusi v. Ciccarelli, No. CV 23- 4697-JFW(AGRx), 2025 WL 873014, at *3
7 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 3, 2025) (dismissing complaint with prejudice for plaintiff's failure to comply with 8 court order requiring counsel); Temujin Labs Inc. v. Transulence Rsch., Inc., No. 21-CV-09152-9 NC, 2025 WL 277402, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 23, 2025) (dismissing with prejudice for failure to 10 comply with local rules and court order requiring counsel); Solaria Corp. v. T.S. Energie e
11 Risorse, S.R.I., No. 13-CV-05201-SC, 2014 WL 7205114, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 17, 2014)
12 ("TSE's failure to . . . comply with the Court's orders [requiring counsel] warrants dismissal of its 13 counterclaims with prejudice."). So, as Plaintiff has failed to comply with the Court's order
14 requiring it to retain counsel by September 5, 2025, and indeed has not obtained counsel as of the 15 date of this order, dismissal with prejudice may be appropriate.

16 However, a court also "must consider [five factors] before dismissing a case or declaring a 17 default: '(1) the public's interest in expeditious resolution of litigation; (2) the court's need to 18 manage its docket; (3) the risk of prejudice to the other party; (4) the public policy favoring the 19 disposition of cases on their merits; and (5) the availability of less drastic sanctions.'" Dreith v.
20 Nu Image, Inc., 648 F.3d 779, 788 (9th Cir. 2011) (quoting Malone v. U.S. Postal Serv., 833 F.2d
21 128, 130 (9th Cir. 1987)). Dismissal or default is appropriate where "at least four factors support
22 dismissal, or where at least three factors strongly support dismissal." Id.

23 Here, four factors weigh in favor of dismissing Plaintiff's claims and declaring a default on 24 Plaintiff's answer to Defendant's counterclaims. "The first two [factors] . . . relate[] to the 25 efficient administration of judicial business for the benefit of all litigants with cases pending."
26 Nealey v. Transportacion Maritima Mexicana, S.A., 662 F.2d 1275, 1279 (9th Cir. 1980). More
27 than four months ago, Plaintiff's previous counsel advised Plaintiff it was moving to withdraw
28 and, because a corporation cannot represent itself, Plaintiff needed to find substitute counsel.

(Dkt. No. 50-1 ¶ 3.) Plaintiff responded on June 30, 2025 that it was “in the process of substituting counsel.” (Id.). Yet, as of August 5, 2025, no new counsel had appeared for Plaintiff. So, that day the Court ordered Plaintiff to retain counsel by September 5, 2025. Plaintiff’s failure to do so for the past four months has delayed case management conferences and therefore adjudication of this action. See Valenzuela v. Best-Line Shades, Inc., No. 19-CV-07293-JSC, 2022 WL 504160, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 18, 2022) (“By failing to respond to the Court’s Order and produce the Class List, failing to retain counsel, and failing to prosecute this action, Defendants have delayed adjudication of this action.”); Brooklyn A-C Delco, Inc. v. DAC Int’l, Inc., No. CV-15-5744-MWF (PLAx), 2017 WL 11917494, at *2 (C.D. Cal. Mar. 8, 2017) (“Plaintiffs have had several months to retain new counsel, and yet failed to do so even after the Court . . . warned them that they could not proceed pro se.”). Furthermore, Plaintiff’s non-compliance with local rules and the Court’s order wastes “valuable time that [the Court] could have devoted to other . . . criminal and civil cases on its docket.” Ferdik v. Bonzelet, 963 F.2d 1258, 1261 (9th Cir. 1992). So, the first two factors weigh in favor of default and dismissal.

As to the third factor, to determine “whether a defendant has been prejudiced, we examine whether the plaintiff’s actions impair the defendant’s ability to go to trial or threaten to interfere with the rightful decision of the case.” Malone, 833 F.2d at 131. “When considering prejudice to the defendant, the failure to prosecute diligently is sufficient by itself to justify a dismissal, even in the absence of a showing of actual prejudice to the defendant from the failure.” In re Eisen, 31 F.3d 1447, 1452 (9th Cir. 1994) (cleaned up). The required amount of “risk of prejudice to the defendant is related to the plaintiff’s reason for [delay].” See Yourish v. Cal. Amplifier, 191 F.3d 983, 991 (9th Cir. 1999). In the nearly three months since the Court ordered Plaintiff to obtain counsel, and over four months since Plaintiff’s prior counsel advised Plaintiff to obtain new counsel, Plaintiff has not provided “any excuses that would justify delaying this action further.” Brooklyn AC-Delco, Inc., 2017 WL 11917994, at *2. Plaintiff’s inability to retain counsel and therefore to participate in litigation it initiated has “made it impossible for [Defendant] to adequately prepare itself for trial” and litigate this case to its conclusion. See Dreith, 648 F.3d at 788 (cleaned up). So, prejudice to Defendant supports default or dismissal.

The fourth factor, “resolution of cases on their merits, always weighs against dismissal.” Id. (citation omitted); cf. Morris v. Morgan Stanley & Co., 942 F.2d 648, 652 (9th Cir. 1991) (“Although there is indeed a policy favoring disposition on the merits, it is the responsibility of the moving party to move toward that disposition at a reasonable pace.”).

Fifth, as to the availability of less drastic sanctions, “a district court’s warning to a party that his failure to obey the court’s order will result in dismissal can satisfy the ‘consideration of alternatives’ requirement.” Ferdik, 963 F.2d at 1262. In its orders requiring Plaintiff to retain counsel, the Court repeatedly warned Plaintiff that Defendant may seek default and dismissal as a result of Plaintiff’s not obtaining counsel. (Dkt. Nos. 53, 66.) See Valenzuela, 2022 WL 504160, at *2 (allowing default as sanction following warnings in disregarded court orders); Softwareworks Grp., Inc. v. Ihosting, Inc., No. C06-04301 HRL, 2007 WL 1279495, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 30, 2007) (striking answer and dismissing claims when court previously “gave [] a clear warning” claims would be dismissed without counsel).

Because four Malone factors weigh in favor of dismissing Plaintiff’s claims and declaring default on Defendant’s counterclaims, such action is appropriate.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated above, Defendant’s motion to strike Plaintiff’s answer to its counterclaims and direct entry of default is GRANTED. Defendant’s motion to dismiss Plaintiff’s complaint with prejudice is also GRANTED. Defendant shall file a motion for default judgment by December 4, 2025.

This Order disposes of Docket Nos. 60 and 61.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
